Building Community Through Fun

Northern California Junior Sports Camp

The Northern California Junior Sports Camp began in 1983 as co-sponsored program of the Far West Wheelchair Athletic Association and the City of San José, All Access Sports and Recreation Services.

The Northern California Junior Sports Camp was the first camp of its kind in the Bay Area. The purpose of the program is to introduce sports and recreation to youth and young adults with physical disabilities who want to have fun and participate in the same sports as their able-bodied peers.

Camp Sponsors:

- Far West Wheelchair Athletic Association
- City of San José Parks, Recreation and Neighborhood Services, All Access Sports and Recreation
- San Jose State University

The Northern California Junior Sports camp is designed to allow youth and young adults with physical disabilities ages 5-21 to experience personal growth, enhanced self esteem, and increased independence. Campers challenge themselves in a variety of sports, gaining the same benefits from participation as non-disabled athletes.

The camp provides introductory and intermediate instruction in both recreational and competitive wheelchair sports. World-Class wheelchair athletes serve as role models and provide instruction in archery, basketball, track & field, tennis, swimming and other sports.

Campers can choose to attend either day or overnight residential camp. Each participant must be capable of independently performing all activities of daily living or independently direct counselors in their need for assistance.

Transportation & Meals:

Transportation will be provided for all camp field trips only. Day campers must make their own arrangements for daily drop off/ pick up. Lunches will be provided everyday for day campers. Overnight campers will receive all meals beginning with lunch on July 9th through a family lunch and awards ceremony on July 15th.
